ADELAIDE ACADEMIC ROLE STATEMENT FACULTY OF SCIENCES

adelaide.edu.au

PREAMBLE

A collective sense of mutual responsibility and effective contributions to the academic endeavour are essential to the performance of the University.

The Adelaide Academic Role Statements outline the threshold performance standards and the high performance standards for academic staff with respect to research, teaching and supporting expectations. The threshold performance standards refer to the minimum acceptable standard of performance below which a staff member may expect to be actively performance managed, in accordance with the principles and process in The University of Adelaide Enterprise Agreement 2017-2021 (as amended or replaced). The high performance standards describe excellent individual performance, the collective achievement of which will ensure that each Faculty is contributing strongly to the University's strategic objectives and reputation. Noting the University benefits from the contributions of many staff who perform well above the high performance standards, these have been included to encourage individuals to excel; and while these are not linked to the promotions process they may constitute part of a PDR discussion about due recognition and readiness for promotion.

Staff will have regular opportunities to discuss their performance against the applicable Faculty Role Statement through Planning, Development and Review (PDR) meetings and will use PDR to plan objectives that support high performance. Staff also have access to Individual Academic Profiles, which are generated in February and July each year to support PDR conversations.

The Adelaide Academic Role Statements should be interpreted carefully by Heads of School, with judgment applied on a case-by-case basis and due consideration given to the appropriate context including FTE, workload allocation, relative opportunity, (e.g. caring responsibilities, gender equity, illness, impact of COVID-19), the operation of unconscious bias and discipline norms (including in relation to professional/clinical practice in the discipline of veterinary medicine). Noting academic staff also contribute in ways that are not captured in these metrics (e.g. outreach to the broader community, research translation and commercialisation, student project supervision and course coordination), these quantitative performance standards should not be applied automatically but rather they should provide a general guide for performance at a particular career stage (classification level). Indeed, exemplary performance in one activity may offset lesser performance in another activity.

How a staff member goes about their work at the University is as important as the outcome of their work. While the Adelaide Academic Role Statements do not explicitly state the behaviour expectations that are articulated in the Code of Conduct and the Staff Values and Behaviour Framework, it is expected that the behaviour of academic staff accords with these Frameworks, including as "good citizens" of the University, by pro-actively participating in the life of the University community and by engaging with colleagues in a supportive, respectful and considerate manner.

		Threshold	High	Threshold	High	Threshold	High	Threshold	High
Publications	Normalised Citation Indicator (NCI) The citation measure is calculated by dividing the actual count of citing items by the expected citation rate for documents with the same document type, year of publication and subject area. When a document is assigned to more than one subject area, an average of the ratios of the actual to expected citations is used. NOTE: This value will be extracted from InCites. Measure to be computed from publications over a 3 year period commencing 4 years ago.	1.0	1.2	1.2	1.4	1.4	1.6	1.6	2.0
	Publications/Research Output The annual average count of all outputs recorded in AURORA that have been deemed to be a research output, that are attributed to an author, over the last 3 calendar years. (For high performance publications must also meet the high NCI criteria above. In addition to the value in the table, high performance is evidenced through first/last authorship, or other order as appropriate to the discipline.)	1.0	1.0	1.5	1.5	2.5	2.5	4.0	4.0
